

Harvest 2007

We celebrated our Harvest Festival this year on October 7th. A special service in the morning “harvested” talents in our congregation as it consisted of many more readings than we normally enjoy, all delivered by members of the congregation. After the service, we auctioned the goods which had formed the Harvest display (the money we made will be donated to charity), and then repaired to a local restaurant to share a meal.

During the afternoon, the chapel hosted a different type of celebration as a wedding took place there.

The evening service was also themed around Harvest, and the chapel was decorated appropriately. This time, although readings were delivered by members of the congregation, the service was in the traditional form, with a sermon about the significance of Harvest to us today.
